My Baptism

Today on my baptism day
I promise Jesus Christ
That I will always try to do
The things I know are right.

And I'll remember Him each day
Wherever I may be.
I feel His love and know that He is watching over me.

And though temptations come my way
I need not be afraid,
For He has given me a gift
To guide me every day.

The Holy Ghost, so quietly,
Will whisper thoughts to me
And help me know what I must do
To follow faithfully.

I want to love and serve the Lord
With all my heart and might,
For now I am a member of
The Church of Jesus Christ.

Show you know you are a child of God, leaders urge

By Carrie A. Moore
Deseret News religion editor

Children who "show they know" they are God's children not only find happiness now but become good men and women who are faithful, kind and an asset to their communities.

That was the message leaders of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints shared with children in Salt Lake City, and by satellite broadcast to many other parts of the world, on Saturday. Celebrating the 125th anniversary year of the church's Primary organization for children 11 and younger, President Gordon B. Hinckley joined members of the Primary general presidency in the Conference Center to remind children that each is "a child of God."

"You have an earthly father. . . I hope that you love him, and that you are obedient to him. But you have another father. That is your Father in heaven. He is the father of your spirit, just as your earthly father is the father of your body," said President Hinckley.

"And it is just as important to love and to obey your Father in heaven as it is to love and obey your earthly father."

As children come to recognize that relationship, he said, "you will also know that he expects much of you," in following the commandments of God and the example of Jesus Christ.

LDS Church President Gordon B. Hinckley will speak directly to children Saturday in the church's first satellite broadcast geared specifically to those 11 and younger.

For today's children, who will come of age in a world that is out of their control, life can be frightening. Now the nation stands at the brink of war, and some of America's real heroes were killed last weekend returning from space.

President Hinckley is expected to address concerns and provide reassurance when he speaks to children at 2 p.m. from the Conference Center. The address to the church's youngest members celebrates the 125th anniversary of the Primary, which was organized Aug. 25, 1878, in Farmington.

Because they hold within them a spark of the divine, children can readily understand a God who loves them and knows them personally, according to Sister Coleen K. Menlove, president of the Primary organization for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. And that kind of faith gives them a sense of security, she says.

When children are taught "that they are children of God, that they are loved, that Jesus Christ is their Savior... and that they can pray to him any time, anywhere," their faith can provide peace, not only through life's greatest challenges, but on the playground or among their peers.

Merry Christmas 2003! We hope this holiday season finds you and yours happy and healthy. We have been blessed to see many of our family and friends this year. We enjoyed a trip to Virginia in July, a Tracy, California Reunion where we saw many old friends, and, of course, we always love it when friends and family pop in on us in Utah! Here is an update on our family happenings from this year.

Tom stays busy being a professor of Chemical Engineering at Brigham Young University. He has been traveling more this year with the 9/11 scare settling down a bit. He visited Australia again and had a chance this time to go snorkeling on the Great Barrier Reef. He also went to Orlando, Florida. All the kids wanted to go on that trip to visit Mickey and Minnie, but it wasn't to be this year! Tom was recently called as 2nd Assistant in the ward High Priest Quorum Leadership. After many, many years of scouting callings, he'll now get a chance to work with the grownups.

Beth is blessed to still be a stay-at-home Mom although she doesn't get to stay home very much—volunteering at school, chauffeuring children to various activities and still serving as Primary President manages to fill the hours each day. Beth is still waiting to catch up those 20 years of photos sitting in boxes. This summer we put new windows and carpet in the house. Afterwards we decided it probably would have been easier to buy a new home since we had to move 95% of the stuff anyway. But it was a good way to clean out a bunch of junk!

Daniel has been on his mission in the Hungary Budapest Mission for one and a half years now. The time is passing by! He finally made it to Hungary in January after serving for four months in Southern California while waiting for his visa. He faithfully e-mails us each Monday and we love to get the weekly updates of his experiences. He has served in several cities and has had some wonderful experiences as he had learned the Hungarian language and learned to love the Hungarian people. We just hope he'll come home when his two years are up in June!

Jenny began her second year at BYU this fall. She finished up a great freshman year in April and had a good experience living in the Heritage Halls dorms. But having a little taste of the expenses of the real world helped her decide to move home for a year and save a bit of money. We love having her at home again. Jenny is majoring in Elementary Education and hopes to enter the program next fall after getting all her GE classes taken. She also has enough sign language credits to be considered a minor. So if you see her talking with her hands, you'll know she's doing her homework!

Jeffrey is a senior in high school and looking forward to graduating, although he has no idea what he wants to do next. He had a fun summer with Priest activities including a handcart trek at Martin's Cove, a bike hike through the desert of Moab, Utah, and a week on a houseboat at Lake Powell. What a life! He still plays trombone in the symphonic band and got to play in the pit this fall for a school production of Seven Brides for Seven Brothers. He's looking forward to the band tour trip to Disneyland in March.

Marianne is 10 years old and in the fifth grade. She loves life and trying out new activities. She has scaled back dance to one day a week, but she still has full afternoons with school chorus, an after school learning program called SOAR, a tumbling class, jump team, Jr. Jazz basketball (which Tom will be coaching) and church Activity Days for the girls. She had fun attending Clear Creek (an overnight science camp for 5th graders) in October. Marianne is still a little short for her age, but she's a bundle of energy.

Traci is 8 years old and in the third grade. She loves school and being with her friends. She was baptized by her Dad in January (our baby's baptized! Yikes!). She started taking tap and jazz classes again and is doing great! Marianne and Traci's tap classes performed at the Festival of the Trees this year. She is also doing chorus, SOAR, jump team and Activity Days. We love Traci's smile and laugh!

This year we have been taught again how precious and short life on this earth really is. Beth's Mom passed away suddenly on September 25th. We are grateful for the support of family and friends as we said our goodbyes to Mom. We are grateful for the knowledge of Heavenly Father's plan for us and that she and Dad are reunited and that we can be with them again some day too. And we are thankful that Mom does not have to endure any more pain in this life. She and Dad have given us lasting examples of service, love and testimony.

Again, we wish you a Happy Holiday Season and say that we are thankful to be blessed with such great family members and friends. We hope that 2004 will be a great year for your families. We send our love at this special time of year.

Love from the Fletchers,

Jon, Beth, Jennifer, Jeffrey, Marianne, Traci
